

Table with columns for various Latin forms and their grammatical analysis. The table contains 45 rows, each representing a different Latin form and its morphological breakdown. The columns include the form itself, its constituent parts, and the resulting grammatical information such as tense, mood, and person.